E7. Tuition Fees

French higher education, especially in relation to most other leading study destinations, is highly affordable. Tuition fees will vary across public and private institutions but are more stable and predictable in the public sector where most of the cost of education is borne by the French government.

Under current fee schedules, annual tuition fees for most public institutions are as follows.

For students from the European Union:

- €170 per year at the Licence (bachelor) level
- €243 per year at the master level
- €601 per year in a school of engineering
- €380 per year at the doctoral level

Non-EU students can expect to pay:

- €2,770 per year at the Licence (bachelor) level
- €3,770 per year at the master level

In highly selective institutions and especially at the master's level, tuition fees will reach as high as €10,000 per year or more. Given the range in tuition levels across the French system, all students are advised to carefully determine the costs of study for their preferred institutions and programmes.
